Log in to your Activision account. Hover over your account name, to the top of the page and select LINKED ACCOUNTS. Click on the link Account in next to the account you wish to link. You will be prompted to log in to the account. If you do not wish to log in, you can use the Google Authenticator app to verify your account. It is important to note that, depending on the platform or service, some steps may vary. However, the general procedure is as follows: The first step is to enable the Google Authenticator app on your mobile device. This step is crucial as it provides an additional layer of security to your account. Depending on the platform, you may need to scan a QR code or enter a code manually. Once the app is set up, you will receive a six-digit code that changes every 30 seconds. This code is used to verify your identity when logging in from a new device or location. It is important to keep your phone with you and to ensure the app is always running in the background. If you lose your phone or the app stops working, you may need to contact customer support for assistance. The second step is to go to the account linking page on the Activision website or app. Here, you will see a list of linked accounts and an option to add a new one. Click on the plus sign to add a new account. You will be prompted to enter the account name and password. Once you have entered the information, you will be asked to verify your identity using the Google Authenticator app. Enter the six-digit code from the app into the verification field. If the code is correct, the account will be linked to your Activision account. The third step is to test the link by logging in to your Activision account using the linked account. This will ensure that the link is working correctly and that you can access your account from the linked device. If you encounter any issues, you can unlink the account and try again. It is important to note that linking accounts is a reversible process, so you can always unlink an account if you no longer wish to use it. Finally, it is important to keep your account information secure and to use strong passwords. Regularly updating your password and using a unique one for each account can help protect your information. Additionally, enabling two-factor authentication can provide an extra layer of security. By following these steps, you can easily link your Google Authenticator app to your Activision account, ensuring a secure and convenient gaming experience.

2. Navigate to the security settings or authentication settings of the two steps.

3. Look for an option called "Authenticator" or "Verify" or "Check" in the two steps.

4. Select "Disable" or "Disconnect", next to the Authenticator.
